

An Evening with Laurel and Hardy: Trailer

---

The video opens with a close-up shot of a piano with the lid open.

[Audio: instrumental piano music]

As the music plays, the video pans left where pianist Neil Brand comes into view as he plays the piano. The camera stops moving with Neil's hands in view as he continues to play. The music stops and Neil turns to the camera.

[Audio: Neil: "Hello, I'm Neil Brand. And this is the kind of music you are going to be hearing with my new Laurel and Hardy show. Coming to this theatre in the next couple of months. I'm an improvising piano player and I'll be doing lots of jazzy, fast stuff like that to go with the boys. It's such a privilege to get to play with them, I have to say. They'll look great to, this is going to be some of the best-looking clips you've ever seen Laurel & Hardy on a big screen. So, book up now folks. Coming to this theatre, the Laurel and Hardy centenary show with me, Neil Brand. Look forward to seeing you."]

Neil turns to play the piano once again as his hand moves from one end of the keys to the other.

The video fades to bring up artwork for the show with the following text:

Alan Field & Derek Block proudly present Celebrating 100 Years of Laurel & Hardy: The Centenary Tour 2026. Presented by Neil Brand.

www.laurelandhardypresentedbyneilbrand.co.uk

Within the zeros of a large '100' graphic in the centre of the artwork are portraits of Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy.

At the bottom of the artwork, text reads:

Supported by Yamaha Music

The Yamaha logo is positioned next to this wording.

**END****